Spiritual Notes

Caught Empty-handed.

‘No one is to appear before me empty-handed is the Lord's Word in Exodus 34:20a. In this a striking principle is established. We are taught that we should be conscious of appearing before the Lord with appropriate offerings for Him. We can easily think that this is only for Israel in the Old Testament, who would bring physical offerings such as animals and produce. However, there is a principle established which we must properly respond to ourselves. The principle is that we should appear before the Lord with offerings to worship Him with.

It is interesting here that the instruction to not appear before him empty-handed involved all the people. This requirement is clearly reinforced in Numbers 7. Numbers 7 is one of the longest chapters in our Bibles and at first reading is full of needless repetition. However, we must be aware that repetition is never needless in God's Word. The fact that twelve times the details of what was offered by each tribe is written out in full must have meaning. Of course, the material could have been written in a list once and then a statement that “all the other tribes gave the same”. But no! The same list is given in full twelve times. Surely this is to make absolutely clear that the offering brought by every tribe was of equivalent importance and value.

With regards to ourselves, we are to follow the exhortation to the Hebrews to: Through Jesus, therefore, let us continually offer to God a sacrifice of praise - the fruit of lips that openly profess his name (Heb. 13:15). It is interesting how the spiritual activities described here that we are called to, have parallels with the physical aspects of devotion observed in the Old Testament. So our offerings are not animals but a sacrifice of praise; they are not produce of the land, but the fruit of lips. Notwithstanding the change in the type of offerings there is the ongoing requirement to continually offer.

Accordingly, we must ask: are we appearing before God empty handed? Here we focus upon how we appear at church. So easily we have no thought of bringing our offerings to God every week. However, this is surely wrong. When we come together to worship the Lord we should come with what we have acquired during the week and offer our sacrifices of praise to the Lord. The character of our Lord's Day services would thereby be transformed for the better. The problem is that so many of us think the leaders at the front are the only ones who must prepare for the services. Truly they should prepare. But preparation should be for all of us as well. This brings us back to the call to Israel for all to bring their offerings. We must notice, going back to Exodus 34:20,2 that no-one was to appear before the Lord empty handed.

We must then ask how, practically, we are to acquire these offerings so that we are bringing them every Sunday (and other times) when we come to worship. Perhaps the key thing that helps us in this is the statement that it is “through Jesus” that we offer the sacrifice of praise. When we are seeing Jesus, in our reading of the Word of God, then we will soon be acquiring worship offerings to bring before the Lord. We will be seeing the great value of His saving work which has been sealed by His glorious resurrection and ascension. We will be glorying in the magnificence of His being. And we will be led on to ponder upon the glorious purpose of God thorough Christ, to retrieve us and retrieve this planet for His Glory. So why not write these down so you can remember them.

This process of acquiring offering should begin every Monday morning and end every Lord's Day. The open character of the celebration of the Lord's Supper at our church gives a particular opportunity to present your offering, but in all our services if we came with the attitude of “what-we-can-bring” rather than “what-we-can-get” surely there would be a significant transformation.
